Being yourself
in a group

Is it difficult to feel accepted in a large group of young people? (yes / no)	Actually not, but it depends on the group and their members. Some guys are open to new personalities and some other guys don't like new people.	It depends on the personalities of the guys. If someone is shy or reserved, probably the integration of this person inside the group can be more difficult.		It depends on the behavior of the group members, but always no.
What are the main problems connected to personality in a group? Make examples	The main problems are the communication and the qualities, because they like different things and spend their time differently.	If the group is composed of a lot of people, there must be a lot of different ways to think, routines, traditions and personalities, so people often have something to discuss and to talk about.		Every person in the group is different and how many people there are so many ideas to spend time.
What do you do if you do not feel accepted? Make examples	If we aren't accepted, we can talk to someone in the group and we can find a good solution.	If we aren't accepted, first we must talk about it with the group. Together we can find a solution, if not, probably we want to be part of the wrong group.		If we aren't accepted we can talk about it with the group or with a few members.
Are there any solutions? Make examples	To be always yourself and friendly.	We think that the better solution is always be yourself and don't hold back your ideas and thoughts. If you tell always what you think it will be easier than before.		We think that, first our behaviour must be good. We must be friendly and understanding.
